226	Marcella	Marsella	Ocean Memorial Quilt (Fish Bras)		Cyanotype on Muslin, Store-Bought Fabric	60 x 72		This is a memorial quilt not only for the ocean but also for the endless losses and violence experienced by human female bodies and non-human bodies. While sewing it together, I had this excerpt in my mind: "What is acted out on the female body parallels the larger practices of domination, fragmentation, and conquest against the earth body, which is being polluted, strip-mined, deforested, and cut up into parcels of private property. Equally, this pattern points to the fragmentation of the psyche, which ultimately underlies and enables all of this damage." -Jane Caputi

324	George	Dixon	Say No to Fish Tacos	2026	Wood, Papermache, Aluminium, Net Float with Barnacles	28 x 20 x 3 1/2	$320	My dearest partner orders fish tacos. I prefer my fish alive or at most raw. I say no to fish tacos. She rolls her eyes. I roll mine too. Love Survives. The fish flick and shimmer, they dart and they flow, finding the gaps where good fish should go. She laughs at my logic. I stand by my plea. The fish make their escape and tail wave thanks to me.

366	Pascal	Rene	Fond Farewell	2026	Oil on canvas	31.5 x 25.5	$3,000	This piece is inspired by Auguste Ottin's sculpture, Polyphemus Surprising Acis and Galatea, from the Medici Fountain in Paris. I was moved by how the giant is looming right over them, but the lovers only see each other. That contrast is what drove me to paint this. It's a reminder of how easily we can get distracted from caring for the people closest to us. With so much chaos and uncertainty in the world right now, the work forces you to realize that the faces of the people we love are the things we look for in the end.

399	Vallyn	Murphy	Look Up! Center City Philadelphia	2024	Pinhole Camera Positive on RC Multigrade Paper	7 x 5 x 1	$165	This image was made with a pinhole camera created from an oatmeal container body and an aluminium can lens. The camera has no viewfinder, so I shot mid-day for an optimal result. The photo negative was made by removing a piece of tape over the lens & exposing the photo paper inside to UV light. Negatives were developed in the darkroom. A positive was then printed with an enlarger. Everything was then processed & dried. This is a photo of the BNY Mellon Building in Center City Philadelphia.
